Providing new ways to receive and use your newspaper

The EHDP(sm) — AKA “the Chloe Project,” features a unique business-to-business technological process that allows electronic delivery of a newspaper by text or email, and the reading of that digital newspaper on ‘all’ computers, notepads, notebooks and smart phones. The reader of that digital newspaper can receive it anywhere in the world. This process will revolutionize the newspaper industry by eliminating the newsprint and ink process that newspapers have used since 1609.

The EHDP(sm) — AKA “Chloe Project,” distribution system uses a digital format to print and produce, and a digital platform to electronically distribute a home-delivered newspaper directly to a reader.
